It was snapped clean off. The break, however, instead of being frish was rusted three-quarters of the way around, showing that it had been cracked for some time, and had been held up by but a quarter of its circumference. This was noticed by many and expoten of by the police. The accident caused but little delay on the line of the Madison avenue cars, which are the only ones using the out-wide iracks, being switched it the bridge until the car which caused the accident was removed by an inspector.
